

From Iran to the Illawarra

Two novels set in Iran, the USA and the Illawarra region of NSW

Choir member and award-winning author Cindy Broadbent, writing as Cindy Davies, has just had her second novel published by Odyssey Books, Australia.

Her first novel The Afghan Wife is a romantic thriller set against the background of the Islamic Revolution in Iran in 1979. Cindy travelled to Iran to research this novel in 2015. She was impressed by the beautiful architecture and friendly people of that country.

The Revolutionary's Cousin, her second novel, was published in September and follows the same characters as the first book, when they separate and go to the USA and a migrant hostel in Wollongong.

Cindy has had a life-long interest in the Middle East having lived in Turkey when she was younger and learned to speak the language. She's been a teacher, free-lance travel writer and tour guide in both Turkey and Sydney.

Both books are available on Goodreads, Amazon and Booktopia or from Cindy herself. You are welcome to come to the launch of her second book on Friday 1st November at Club Totem,

Balgowlah from 2.00—4.00 pm.
